By car

There are extensive roadworks going on outside the BluePoint Conference Centre at the moment and, although there is underground parking at the conference centre, it is not recommended to drive there unless you are very familiar with the area. If you do decide to drive, access to the underground parking is from Boulevard Auguste Reyers – you will receive a ticket at the entrance to the car park which must be validated at the reception desk before you can leave.

By Bicycle

The BluePoint Conference Centre has underground bicycle parking if you wish to cycle to the venue. Access also from Boulevard Auguste Reyers.

Wifi

Wireless internet access will be available to participants free of charge throughout the venue.

Web-streaming

The main sessions of the programme will be broadcast on the website via live web-streaming.

Interpretation

During the conference the Commission's interpretation services (SCIC) will provide simultaneous interpretation in English, French and German in the two main meeting rooms (Einstein and Archimedes). In the third meeting room (Newton) there will only be interpretation to and from French and English, with passive interpretation in all three main languages. There will not be interpretation in the fourth meeting room nor in the side session meeting room, nor in the tent which will be used for the Green Week Café-style sessions.
